October remains mired in red

- Most markets in Asia ex-Japan (notably Hong Kong) made key highs in early September and remain locked in a downward draft with further downside bias.
- The moribund trading environment is not only affected by the prevalent risk-off sentiment but also diminished appetite for emerging market equities in light of the strong underlying USD strength and forex risks.
- Top BUYs: Ratchaburi Electricity Generating Holding PCL (RATCH TB), GT Capital Holdings Inc (GTCAP PM) and Vinh Hoan Corporation (VHC VN).
- Top SELLs: Kuala Lumpur Kepong Berhad (KLK MK), Anton Oilfield Services Group (3337 HK), PT Electronic City Tbk (ECII IJ) and Vard Holdings Ltd (VARD SP).

DJIA Index Weekly Chart

Market Commentary

- The DJIA's rise to its Aug 2013 high of 15,658.43 was a weekly Elliott Wave 3. After that high, the index corrected down its weekly Wave 4 low of 14,719.43 (Oct 2013).
- From that 14,719.43 low, the DJIA is extending upwards on its weekly Wave 5 move. The index made a new all-time high of 17,350.64 on 19 Sep 2014.
- Support areas will be weaker, while very heavy profit-taking at the resistance levels will be very wise. Most of its weekly indicators are negative (except Oscillator), with very obvious bearish divergence signals as well.
- 18 and 40 simple moving averages (SMA) depict a waning uptrend on its weekly and monthly charts. Its daily chart has turned into a nasty downtrend.
- Despite the low interest-rate policy in the US since the GFC crisis, the DJIA had stalled at 17,350.46 (short of its first 17,470 upside target). The final reduction to a no-QE Fed policy may cause markets to tumble further in Oct 2014.
- A "Sell on Rallies" strategy for the DJIA for the next fortnight. Prices will test the indicated support levels.

MXASJ Weekly Chart

Market Commentary

- The MXASJ's rebound from its Oct 2008 low of 223.62 was an Elliott Wave 3-3-5 Flat correction to the high of 599.15 (Apr 2011). After the 599.15 high, the index fell to 415.65. It then stalled at 566.88 in May 2013.
- After falling below 525.14 in Jun 2013, it made a move to 475.70 (25 Jun). The MXASJ rise stalled at 562.43 on 25 Oct 2013. Its next key swing low was sighted at 508.53 (5 Feb 2014). After the 508.53 low, the index has stalled at 608.06 (4 Sep 2014).
- Support areas will be much weaker, while very heavy profit-taking at the resistance levels will be very wise. Its weekly indicators are mostly negative (except Oscillator).
- 18 and 40 simple moving averages (SMA) also depict an ending uptrend on its monthly chart. Its daily and weekly charts are in severe downtrends.
- We believe that there could be a heavy liquidation tone for most of the regional equity markets for October. Volatility and uncertainty has prevailed due to slowing global growth and a more buoyant US dollar trend.
- The buoyant US dollar trend (on anticipation of potentially firmer US interest rates) has led to a softer commodity and emerging-market trend since early Sep 2014.

FBM KLCI Weekly Chart

Market Commentary

- The FBMKLCI's rebound from the Oct 2008 low of 801.27 took the form of an Elliott Wave 3-3-5 Flat correction to an all-time high of 1,896.23 (Jul 2014).
- Since its recent low of 1,660.39 (28 Aug 2013), the index was on an upward trajectory to its all-time high of 1,896.23 with obvious and ample bearish divergent signals.
- Support areas will be very weak, while very heavy profit-taking at the resistance zones will be wise. All its weekly indicators have turned negative.
- 18 and 40 simple moving averages (SMA) depict a neutral trend for its monthly chart. Its daily and weekly charts have turned down into vicious downtrends.
- The index peaked at 1,896.23. As such, liquidation on rallies will be wise as most of the index components are weakening as well. The recent downward price action is typical of bearish "Rising Wedge" breakdown patterns.
- We recommend that investors sell on rallies and sell all rebounds to the 1,808.88 to 1,896.23 resistances. As there are very clear signs of technical tiredness and divergence, there is a great chance of the index moving downwards in the forthcoming months. Liquidation on rallies remains very wise.

KLK MK - MYR20.04 TAKE PROFIT (TECHNICAL)

(Stock Code: 2445) (Bloomberg Code: KLK MK Equity)

Kuala Lumpur Kepong Berhad produces and processes palm products, natural rubber, and cocoa on its plantations.

Market Commentary

- KLK MK's plunge from its May 2014 major Wave 5 and all-time high of MYR24.98 took the form of a bearish weekly Elliott Wave 3 drop to its recent low of MYR20.40 (Oct 2014).
- Against the volatile movements of the FBMKLCI, this stock has plunged and surpassed the index on the downside. An ability to surpass the key MYR20.40 support would mean further downside for the stock.
- Its support levels indicated are very weak, while heavy profit-taking at the resistance levels will cap any rebound. Its indicators are very weak, with all the negative weekly signals depicting further strong selling pressure.
- 18 and 40 simple moving averages (SMA) also depict a very strong triple time-frame downtrend for the daily, weekly and monthly charts.
- Therefore, the chart evidence suggests that investors have been selling this Malaysian stock over the last 20 weeks. We suggest selling this stock on any and every rebound rally.

HSI Weekly Chart

Market Commentary

- The HSI's rebound from the 10,676.29 low took the form of a 3-3-5 Flat rise to the high of 24,988.57 (Nov 2010). Its next two key swings were 16,170.35 (low) and 23,944.74 (high).
- A swing low formed at 19,426.36 (Jun 2013) and its next uptrend stalled at 24,111.55 in Dec 2013. The HSI's next swing low was seen at the 21,137.61 low (Mar 2014). On 4 Sep 2014, the HSI peaked at 25,362.98 and has fallen badly since then.
- Support areas will be much weaker, while heavy profit-taking at the resistances will be very wise. Its weekly chart indicators are mainly negative (except its Oscillator).
- 18 and 40 simple moving averages (SMA) also depict a double time-frame downtrend for the HSI on its daily and weekly charts. Its monthly chart remains marginally positive.
- A much softer tone for the HSI will be obvious, as the index has surpassed its previous 24,111.55 peak only to stall at 25,362.98 (4 Sep 2014). The index has plunged since the Sep 2014 peak.
- The HSI Index could plunge towards its support areas shown above. A high of 25,362.98 is very ominous; as the HSI's daily and weekly charts have swiftly turned into vicious downtrends.

Market Commentary

- 3337 HK's decline from its May 2013 major and all-time Wave C high of HKD6.73 took the form of a bearish weekly Elliott Wave 3 plunge downwards to its recent low of HKD2.18 (Oct 2014).
- Against the volatile movements of the HSI, this stock has moved down and surpassed the index on the downside. An ability to surpass the recent HKD2.18 support would mean further downside for the stock.

JCI Weekly Chart

Market Commentary

- The JCI's rebound from the Oct 2008 low of 1,089.34 took the form of an Elliott Wave 3-3-5 Flat correction to the all-time high of 5,251.30 (May 2013).
- From that high, the JCI corrected to its recent swing low of 3,837.74 before rebounding. Since then, the JCI rebounded to 4,791.77 and fell off into its secondary low of 4,109.31 Dec 2013. The JCI's trend has turned up strongly since that low and stalled at a new all-time high of 5,262.57 (on 8 Sep 2014) with a weekly Bearish Engulfing pattern.

- 18 and 40 simple moving averages (SMA) show an ending monthly chart uptrend. Its daily chart had just turned into a downtrend recently, but the weekly chart is neutral.
- Over the next fortnight, it may be wise to sell at the stipulated resistance zones. We have reduced our stance on the JCI to "Sell on Rallies" for the next fortnight.

- The SET's rebound from its Oct 2008 low of 383.63 took the form of an Irregular Elliott Wave (EW) 3-3-5 Flat correction to a high of 1,649.77 (May 2013).
- From the 1,649.77 high, the SET fell to 1,338.81. Its next rebound stalled at 1,519.21 and the index fell to a low of 1,260.08. After its rebound to 1,494.27, it broke below 1,260.08 and bottomed out at 1,205.44 (Jan 2014). Further firm market action in mid-Aug 2014 has caused the SET to surge above 1,548.16 to a high of 1,602.21 (29 Sep 2014).
- Support areas indicated may be zones to nibble, while heavy profit-taking at the resistances will be wise. Its weekly chart indicators have mainly remained positive (except the Stochastic and MACD signals).
- 18 and 40 simple moving averages (SMA) show a stalling double time-frame uptrend for the weekly and monthly charts. Its daily chart has turned into a downtrend.
- Therefore, the chart evidence suggests that investors have sold the SET down from its 1,649.77 May 2013 high. It then found its next floor at 1,205.44. We advocate nibbling the SET on dips. As a temporary top was then seen at 1,602.21, range trading may be the order of the next fortnight.

PCOMP Weekly Chart

Market Commentary

- The PCOMP's rise from its Feb 2010 low of 2,787.66 took the index to an all-time high of 7,403.65 (May 2013). Since that 7,403.65 weekly Wave 3 high, the index traded to a Wave 4 low of 5,562.13 (Aug 2013).
- The rebound from 5,562.13 stalled at 6,648.08 on 23 Oct 2013. After that, the index held its 5,709.34 secondary support level. The PCOMP recently surpassed its Jul 2014 resistance of 7,016.71 and stalled at 7,413.62 (25 Sep 2014).
- Support areas may be zones to nibble, while heavy profit taking at the resistances will be wise. Most of its weekly indicators are currently positive (except Stochastic) for now.
- 18 and 40 simple moving averages (SMA) depict an ending uptrend for its weekly and monthly charts. Its daily chart downtrend is just emerging.
- The chart evidence suggests that investors sold the Philippines index from May to Aug 2013. The good recovery since the Aug 2013 low stalled at 7,413.62 recently. Therefore, we have maintained our stance at "Nibble on Dips" for the next fortnight. Remain wary of a potential downturn on this exchange quite soon.

FSSTI Weekly Chart

Market Commentary

- The FSSTI's rebound from its Oct 2008 low of 1,473.77 took the form of an Irregular Elliott Wave 3-3-5 Flat move to a high of 3,464.79 (May 2013) with a Bearish Engulfing pattern.
- The index's next key swings were 3,065.42 (low), 3,277.55 (high), 2,990.68 (low) and 3,260.14 (high). Its price weakness since Sep 2013 caused the index to fall towards its latest swing low of 2,953.01 (4 Feb 2014). The FSSTI had made a recent high of 3,387.84 (31 Jul 2014) and the index has not been able to surpass that level since.
- Support areas will be much weaker while very heavy profit-taking at the resistances will be wise. Most of its weekly chart indicators are bearish (except Oscillator).
- 18 and 40 simple moving averages (SMA) are depicting a marginal uptrend for its monthly chart. Its daily and weekly chart trends have turned downwards.
- Therefore, the chart evidence suggests that investors have sold the index down since the 3,464.79 high. The rebound from the low of 2,953.01 (Feb 2014) has stalled at the recent 3,387.84 high. Selling on rallies for the FSSTI will be the correct strategy to adopt for the next fortnight.

- 18 and 40 simple moving averages (SMA) depict a mixed tone for this index. The weekly and monthly charts are marginally positive but the daily chart is currently neutral.

Glossary of key technical terms

COMMODITY CHANNEL INDEX (CCI)	An oscillator used in technical analysis to help determine when an investment vehicle has been overbought and oversold. It quantifies the relationship between the asset's price, a moving average (MA) of the asset's price, and normal deviations (D) from that average.
DIRECTIONAL MOVEMENT INDEX (DMI)	An indicator for identifying when a definable trend is present in an instrument, i.e. the DMI tells whether an instrument is trending or not.
MOVING AVERAGE CONVERGENCE DIVERGENCE (MACD)	A trend lagging momentum indicator that shows the relationship between two moving averages of prices. A "signal line" is also plotted on top of the MACD to function as a trigger for buy and sell signals.
OSCILLATOR	A technical analysis tool that is banded between two extreme values and built with the results from a trend indicator for discovering short-term overbought or oversold conditions. As the oscillator approaches the upper extreme value the stock is overbought, while in the lower extreme it is oversold.
RELATIVE STRENGTH INDEX (RSI)	A technical momentum indicator that compares the magnitude of recent losses to determine overbought and oversold conditions of the stock. The stock is overbought (overvalued) once the RSI approaches the 80-level. Meanwhile, the stock is oversold (undervalued) as the RSI approaches the 20-level.
STOCHASTIC	A technical momentum indicator that compares a security's closing price to its price range over a given time period. The stock is overbought when the indicator is above 80 and oversold when it is below 20.
